[MUSIC] Welcome to the last module of this course. In this module, you will learn about the concept of servant leadership, which we briefly touched on previously in the specialization. Servant leadership is foundational for leading agile teams. I want to emphasize that your role here is not to manage, but instead to lead your teams. The concept of servant leadership will allow you to do that. You will also learn how to build a shared understanding, which will help your team become more effective collaborators. And finally, I will share the best practices and tools for facilitating teams online and in person. Let's get started.
